TOTAL CUT OF $120,000

RESULT OF THE WORK OF THE FIRST MARION COUNTY COUNCIL.

The Total Appropriations Agreed Upon Amount to $711,899.50-No New Big Bridges.

The Marion County Council, after a session of nearly three weeks, will finish its work this morning by passing the various ordinances necessary to complete the duties of the council. The tax levy ordinance-fixing the rate for general county expenses at 23 cents-has already been agreed on and yesterday evening late the council finished the appropriation ordinance. This will include the salaries of county officers and a fund of 362,363 to be expended in maintaining gravel roads. The council will also pass the ordinance providing for the refunding of $200,000 of bonds which fall due next June.

Yesterday the council agreed to allow the recorder $600 to pay for the rebinding of old records and $2,000 for recopying records. The recorder had estimated that these two items would cost the county $7,000. It has been finally decided that the county will not be able to build any large bridges next | that he regretted or would not have spen year. It was estimated that the bridges the | again had the necessity presented itself. H commissioners thought were necessary would cost in the neighborhood of $211,000. The elimination of the bridge expense from the commissioners' estimate will not interfere with the construction of the Central avenue bridge. The council estimates that it has made a cut on the total estimate for county expenses of $120,000.

THE VOLUNTEER FIREMEN.

Old-Time Men Who "Ran with the Machine" Organize.

Some of the old-time fire-fighters of the State met in Room 1. Superior Court, yesterday, and organized a society, which will be composed entirely of men who have belonged to some volunteer fire department. The society has not yet been named, but a title probably will be selected at the next meeting. Those present yesterday were George W. Pitts, David Brouse, Gen. John Coburn, George W. Owings, Samuel E. Johns, J. W. Petty, David Kiley, Charles Rihal, W. B. Millender, John B. Cockrum. George M. Northway and Thomas M. Chill. of Indianapolis; A. L. Brasher, Albert Baker and Col. W. C. Roose, of New Albany; John A. Bryan and Charles E. Nehf, of Terre Haute, and Hewitt H. Nulter, A. M. Blair, C. W. Rhodes and I. F. Bogle, of Martinsville. John A. Bryan was elected president of the permanent organization, and Charles E. Nehf was elected secretary and treasurer. The following committee was appointed to prepare a constitution and by-laws: George W. Pitts. of Indianapolis; Col. W. C. Roose, of New Albany; A. L. Brasher, of New Albany; J. D. Bell, of Terre Haute, and W. H. Willoughby, of afayette. When this committee has preared the constitution and is ready to reort, another meeting will be called by the chairman. The purpose of the organization is to bring the men who formed the old vol-unteer fire companies into a c oser acquir ance. There is also talk of making the as-sociation a beneficial one in a financial way. At the meeting yesterday Gen. John Coaing of the trials and tribulations of who used to "run with the old ma-

TAGGART NOW DENIES IT

EX-MAYOR DENNY'S CAUSTIC LETTER DRAWS A REPLY FROM HIM.

He Says He Did Not Say What Two Newspapers Said He Did Say-

Mr. Denny's Remarks.

Ex-Mayor Caleb S. Denny has replied to the attacks made upon his administration by Mayor Taggart in an open letter made public yesterday. In answering Mayor Taggart's arraignment he says: "I have no objection whatever to make to anything you may have said, in so far as your statements may have been made simply in comparison of the strict enforcement of the laws, which I attempted to carry out, and your policy of nonenforcement." The letter denies the accusation that a spy system was enforced in apprehending offenders against the laws, declaring that instead the police were instructed to exercise great vigilance to detect violations of the law by gamblers and saloon keepers who persisted in defying the ordinances. In referring to the city improvements made under his administration, Mr. Denny states that more streets were improved and sewers constructed than under either of the two administrations of Mayor Taggart, that the improvements were pushed as rapidly as hard Democratic times, which existed during his term of office, permitted and that the citizens at that time were objecting, owing to these conditions, to the work that was even then being done. It is not fair, the ex-mayor insists, to make comparisons between the two administrations on the matter of park improvements. The law would not allow Mr. Denny to take the steps it has been possible for Mayor Taggart to accomplish. It was impossible, also, owing to the constitutional debt limit having been reached prior to his taking office. The present administration was lifted from this difficulty by the payment of the Belt power to borrow large sums of money. A permanent debt against the city has been made for every dollar put in the recent improvements. While Mr. Denny's hands were tied by the already existing indebtedness he was able, nevertheless, to refund at 4 per the improvements since completed. In conclusion the letter calls attention to the fact that when Mayor Taggart first accepted the office he insisted that the laws should be strictly enforced and that instructions to that effect were issued to his chief of police. "I am anxious to know," Mr. Denny says, "how it happens that you have found it to be in the line of your duty to change front completely on this question. If it is an honest change of view on the question referred to it will be sufficient for you, in answer, to simply say so, but if your mind has not undergone a change in this matter then I think that you owe me an apology."

THE MAYOR'S REPLY. Replying to this, Mayor Taggart sent his position as follows: "Your letter of the 20th is received, and if I were not sick and confined at home I would see you in person. I have never, in any speech, in former campaigns or in this one, mentioned your name. I did say at Haughville that if I was elected mayor I did not intend that policemen and detectives should be put in citizens' clothing watching see what people should eat and drink. I did not attack your administration because you did not rebuild the City Hospital or police station, but I did claim credit for this administration in remodeling and rebuilding those institutions.

"In the matter of public improvements, ave never made any attack on your administration, either as to work done or left undone. What I have said is that the guarantee period had been increased from five to nine years and at a reduced cost. I believe that if you will take the statement of any unbiased listener at Haughville or any other meeting addressed by me that he will say to you frankly, if the truth is told, that I have never said a word about you personally, or about your administration, except as above mentioned, which must have been taken, by inference, by the Journal reporter that I alluded to you personally. In conclusion, I wish to assure you that I entertain for you the very kindest and best feeling, and I believe, as I have said before.

THE REPORT OF THE SPEECH. In handling Mayor Taggart's speech the

Denny faction by saying that he felt sure that the people did not want the law enseed on the total appropriation will make spies and sneaks out of the police force of the city, and he believed no one had seen policemen climbing waterspouts and fire escapes in an effort to ferret out those who kept open after 11 o'clock or who accommodated a thirsty man on Sunday. He said he didn't think self-respecting cluzens wanted to be made parties to such methods nor to bring the town back to the point it was during the Denny administration, 'when visitors passed through the town by way of the Belt Railroad. He said that whatever the city had in the way of improvement and beauty it owed to the Democratic administration, and with regard to the accusation that he 'had smiled away thousands of dollars,' he said he had never seen, during his four years of office, a dollar spent said the Denny administration had left the city prison in a filthy condition, so that no unfortunate man 'who happened to be out after 11 o'clock and had to be picked up by the sleuths, could stay there over night and come out without being covered with vermin,' All this, he said, had been changed. but he neglected to say that at the present day the turnkeys at the police station are compelled to keep vermin out of the office adjoining the lockup by daily doses of disinfectant. According to the mayor, the present 'fine police station' is a place any citizen might really wish to be incarcerated

> One of Mayor Taggart's constituents recently made the remark that he was 'smooth and 'fley." As even none of the reporters had an opportunity to take stenographic reports of his speech, and the room was filled with his supporters, it would be interesting to know to whom the question of what he really did say could be referred to with satisfaction.

> ANOTHER PAPER'S REPORT. The reporter of another paper was present, and in speaking of the meeting, said in briefer terms, substantially what was reported in the Journal. The Sun, in re> porting the meeting, said: "He fell on the Denny administration with both feet, and stamped it good and He said he did not think self-respecting citizens want a return to a government where detectives were climbing water spouts to look into windows to discover whether the saloons were accommolating thirsty men on Sunday The Journal did not say that Taggart mentioned the name of Mr. Denny, but that he did refer to Mr. Denny's administration is beyond dispute. The Journal, in its article, said: "He said the Denny administration left the city prison in a flithy condition." As Mr. Taggart objects to this, it may be said that his actual language was: "When I came into office, the city hospital and the station house were in a disgraceful condition, as every one knows." He then reviewed step by step all the work done since then, and appropriated the credit for it to his own administration. Not one word was said about "the guarantee period being increased from five to nine years, and at a reduced cost." He held the new buildings and other improvements up as the work of his party and as an indication of its progressiveness compared to the work of the previous Republican administration. He, perhaps studiously avoided mentioning the name of Mr. Denny in his talks, but for the sake of tweedledee and tweedledum it may be said that he continually referred to "my predecessor" and "the last Republican ad-When interviewed last night, Mr. Denny said: "I regret if any misunderstanding has grown out of this matter I took it for granted that the reports made in the papers of Sept. 19 were correct, and had been informed before dictating my letter that substantially the language used by Mr. Taggart at his Haughville speech had been repeated at several other meetings. That the state fair is for the country people, Indianapolitans are not denying, but the people of the city have helped to swell the crowds at the fair and on the streets. There are some who make it a rule to stay at home when there are great crowds in the city, but it seems the majority of the citizens have a desire to be on the streets at the same time the visitors are. The country people would resent it if it were insinuated that the city people like to "study" them.
